

May and June Update 2021

In these past two months we have been so blessed by the generosity of all of you and your prayers and support. We made it to 32 meetings and gained several new supporters. We even received increases from some supporters already in place. We have traveled all around the upstate of South Carolina and began making stops into Georgia now. Our calendar is nearly full for the year with the exception of our Wednesdays.

It's so amazing to know that we have already been on deputation for 6 months now. We have met so many wonderful people. Seen so many beautiful Churches and had the opportunity to stay in several nice prophets chambers. To know there are so many churches and people that love missions and want to support us is a real blessing.

Since my last update the boys and I have completed school. Jay completed 6th grade with all A's and Timothy graduated kindergarten. I completed college and received my Bachelors in Theology as well. They mailed me my diploma in a beautiful book along with all of my grades. I managed to get or go above an "A" in every class. We also celebrated Mothers Day in our home church in May and then in June we celebrated Dawn's birthday and were able to go to our home church for Fathers Day as well. Jay and Timothy also were able to attend camps in June.

I was able to secure meetings along the way out to Wallace, Idaho and back for the month of July. The final details are in place and we are praying for a safe trip as we will be gone the entire month.

I am still working full time laying brick, but have been praying for God to help me make the right decision concerning my job at the appropriate time. I have a longer time table than I believe God has for my secular job, so I am just praying and seeking his will in this matter.

It's a blessing to have your support and prayers as we press on toward the mark. God has been so gracious to us and I thank all of the churches and pastors that have been willing to have me in their churches and pulpits. I pray we are as much of a blessing to you as all of you are to us. I want to ask for your continued prayers. We need God's hand of protection and safety upon us as we continue deputation. I thank each and every one of you for loving and caring for me and my family and our call to Wallace, Idaho.

God bless you all,
Brother Ray Godfrey
